Dear Image Conference Delegates,

Welcome to Liverpool and to the Seventh International Conference on the Image. The Image Knowledge Community—its conference, journal, and book imprint—was created to explore the nature and functions of images and image making.

Founded in 2010, The Image Knowledge Community is brought together around a shared interest in the nature and function of image making and images. The inaugural conference was held at the University of California, Los Angeles, USA in December 2010 and has since been hosted: in collaboration with the San Sebastian Film Festival at the Kursaal Conference Palace in San Sebastián, Spain, 2011; in partnership with the Mediations Biennale and the Higher School of Humanities and Journalism in Poznań, Poland, 2012; at the University Center, Chicago, USA, 2013; at Freie Universität Berlin in Berlin, Germany, 2014; and at the University California, Berkeley, USA, 2015. Next year, we are honored to hold the conference alongside the 57th International Art Exhibition of La Biennale di Venezia in cooperation with Venice International University, 31 October-1 November 2017, in Venice, Italy.

Conferences can be ephemeral spaces. We talk, learn, get inspired, but these conversations fade with time. This Knowledge Community supports a range of publishing modes in order to capture these conversations and formalize them as knowledge artifacts. We encourage you to submit your research to The International Journal of the Image. We also encourage you to submit a book proposal to The Image Book Imprint.

In partnership with our Editors and Community Partners The Image Knowledge Community is curated by Common Ground Publishing. Founded in 1984, Common Ground Publishing is committed to building new kinds of knowledge communities, innovative in their media and forward thinking in their messages. Common Ground Publishing takes some of the pivotal challenges of our time and builds knowledge communities which cut horizontally across legacy knowledge structures. Sustainability, diversity, learning, the future of humanities, the nature of interdisciplinarity, the place of the arts in society, technology's connections with knowledge, the changing role of the university—these are deeply important questions of our time which require interdisciplinary thinking, global conversations, and cross-institutional intellectual collaborations. Common Ground is a meeting place for people, ideas, and dialogue. However, the strength of ideas does not come from finding common denominators. Rather, the power and resilience of these ideas is that they are presented and tested in a shared space where differences can meet and safely connect—differences of perspective, experience, knowledge base, methodology, geographical or cultural origins, and institutional affiliation. These are the kinds of vigorous and sympathetic academic milieus in which the most productive deliberations about the future can be held. We strive to create places of intellectual interaction and imagination that our future deserves.

I want to thank our partners and Local Committee who have poured such a phenomenal amount of work into this conference, including Professor Caroline Wilkinson and Pauline Whitehead at the Liverpool School of Art & Design, Liverpool John Moores University; Professor Simeon Yates and Susan Potts at the Institute of Cultural Capital; and Dr. Joasia Krysa at the Liverpool Biennial. I'd also like to thank my Image Knowledge Community colleagues, Jeremy Boehme, Emily Kasak, Kimberly Kendall, and Caitlyn Schmid, who have put such a significant amount of work into this conference.

We wish you all the best for this conference, and we hope it will provide you every opportunity for dialogue with colleagues from around the corner and around the globe.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Phillip Kalantzis-Cope
Director, Common Ground Publishing

Our Mission

Common Ground Publishing aims to enable all people to participate in creating collaborative knowledge and to share that knowledge with the greater world. Through our academic conferences, peer-reviewed journals and books, and innovative software, we build transformative knowledge communities and provide platforms for meaningful interactions across diverse media.

Our Message

Heritage knowledge systems are characterized by vertical separations—of discipline, professional association, institution, and country. Common Ground identifies some of the pivotal ideas and challenges of our time and builds knowledge communities that cut horizontally across legacy knowledge structures. Sustainability, diversity, learning, the future of the humanities, the nature of interdisciplinarity, the place of the arts in society, technology's connections with knowledge, the changing role of the university—these are deeply important questions of our time which require interdisciplinary thinking, global conversations, and cross-institutional intellectual collaborations. Common Ground is a meeting place for these conversations, shared spaces in which differences can meet and safely connect—differences of perspective, experience, knowledge base, methodology, geographical or cultural origins, and institutional affiliation. We strive to create the places of intellectual interaction and imagination that our future deserves.

Our Media

Common Ground creates and supports knowledge communities through a number of mechanisms and media. Annual conferences are held around the world to connect the global (the international delegates) with the local (academics, practitioners, and community leaders from the host community). Conference sessions include as many ways of speaking as possible to encourage each and every participant to engage, interact, and contribute. The journals and book imprint offer fully-refereed academic outlets for formalized knowledge, developed through innovative approaches to the processes of submission, peer review, and production. The knowledge community also maintains an online presence—through presentations on our YouTube channel, monthly email newsletters, as well as Facebook and Twitter feeds. And Common Ground's own software, Scholar, offers a path-breaking platform for online discussions and networking, as well as for creating, reviewing, and disseminating text and multi-media works.

The Image Knowledge Community

Interrogating the nature and functions of images and image making

The Image Knowledge Community is brought together around a shared interest in the nature and function of image making and images. The community interacts through an innovative, annual face-to-face conference, as well as year-round online relationships, a peer reviewed journal, and a book imprint—exploring the affordances of the new digital media.

Conference

The conference is built upon four key features: internationalism, interdisciplinarity, inclusiveness, and interaction. Conference delegates include leaders in the field as well as emerging scholars, who travel to the conference from all continents and represent a broad range of disciplines and perspectives. A variety of presentation options and session types offer delegates multiple opportunities to engage, to discuss key issues in the field, and to build relationships with scholars from other cultures and disciplines.

Publishing

The Image Knowledge Community enables members to publish through two media. First, community members can enter a world of journal publication unlike the traditional academic publishing forums—a result of the responsive, non-hierarchical, and constructive nature of the peer review process. The International Journal of the Image provides a framework for double-blind peer review, enabling authors to publish into an academic journal of the highest standard. The second publication medium is through the book imprint, The Image, publishing cutting edge books in print and electronic formats. Publication proposal and manuscript submissions are welcome.

Community

The Image Knowledge Community offers several opportunities for ongoing communication among its members. Any member may upload video presentations based on scholarly work to the community YouTube channel. Monthly email newsletters contain updates on conference and publishing activities as well as broader news of interest. Join the conversations on Facebook and Twitter, or explore our new social media platform, Scholar.

Examining the nature and form of the image as a medium of representation

Theme 1: The Form of the Image

- The mass media
- The grammar of the visual
- The image as text
- The image as art
- Image techniques
- The cognitive science of perception
- Visualization
- Technologies and techniques of representation
- Multimodality: image in relation to language, space, gesture, and object
- Moving images: cinema, television, video, animation
- Visual arts practices
- Photography
- The moving image
- Aspects of vision: viewpoint, perspective, interest
- Digital capture and manipulation of images
- Archiving the image
- Discovering the image: databases, social media, tagging, folksonomy, taxonomy

Investigating image making processes and spaces of image representation

Theme 2: Image Work

- The 'new': digital and social media
- Cinema and television: traditional and new
- Image on the internet
- Corporations in the image business
- Selling the image
- The amateur artist or photographer
- Branding, logos, and advertising
- Artist or image-maker as professional
- Commercial galleries, art dealers, and image libraries

Exploring the social effects of the image

Theme 3: The Image in Society

- Arts and image communities
- Image galleries and museums
- The image in media, communications, and advertising
- The image in architecture
- The image as commercial artifact, information, and propaganda
- Images in security and surveillance
- The role of the viewer
- Learning to represent in images
- Images in the service of learning
- Reading and interpreting images
- The past, present, and future of the image

The Defining Image

The foundations of our species being, and the narratives of species history are marked by imagery—the parietal, megalithic art, and body art of first peoples, the iconography and symbology of religions, the graphic-representational roots of writing. We are, uniquely in natural history, the symbolic species. And within our peculiar species history, the development of capacities to create images parallel speaking and precede writing.

Since the beginnings of modernity, however, we have increasingly focused our attention on language as our species-defining characteristic. After half a millennium where the power and prestige of language has held sway, we may be in the cusp of a return of the visual, or at least a multimodality in which image and text are deeply inveigled in each other's meanings. This can in part be attributed to the affordances of the new communications environment. As early as the mid twentieth century, photolithography put image and text conveniently back onto the same page. Then, since the mid 1970s, digitized communications have brought image, text, and sound together into the same manufacturing processes and transmission media.

The Image of Transformation: Properties of Consequence

The image has several key properties, of interest to the participants in this knowledge community. The first is its empirical connection with the world—telling something of the world, reflecting the world. It re-presents the world. How does it do this? What are its techniques? What are its mediations? What kinds of 'truth' can we have in images?

A second property of consequence—the image has a normative loading. No image can ever solely be a reflection on the world. It is also a perspective on the world, an orientation to the world. This is because it is the incidental outcome of an act of design. It is the product of an act of human agency. An interested image-maker takes available resources for meaning (visual grammars, fabrication techniques, and focal points of attention), undertakes an act of designing (the process of image-making), and in so doing re-images the world in a way that it has never quite been seen before. The human agent is central.

To the extent that no two conjunctions of human life experience are ever precisely the same, interests and perspectives in imaging are infinitely varied. In fact, across the dimensions of material conditions (social class, locale, family); corporeal attributes (age, race, sex, sexual orientation, and physical and mental abilities); and symbolic differences (culture, language, gender, affinity, and persona) variations in perspective are frequently paramount, the focal purpose or implicit agenda of the imaging agent.

For viewers, too, every image is seen through available cultural and technical resources for viewing, seen in a way particular to their interest and perspective. The act of viewing transforms both the image and its world. From a normative perspective then, how do interest, intention, motivation, perspective, subjectivity, and identity intertwine themselves in the business of image-making? And what is the role of the viewer in reframing and revisualizing the image?

And a third property of consequence—the image is transformational. Its potentials are utopian. We see (the empirical). We visualize (the normative). We imagine (the utopian). There is a more-than-fortuitous etymological connection between 'image' and 'imagination'. Images can be willed. Images speak not just of the world, but to the world. They can speak to hopes and aspirations. The world reseen is the world transformed. What's in the imagination for now, can become an agenda for practice and politics tomorrow. Imagination is the representation of possibility.

About

The Image Knowledge Community is dedicated to the concept of independent, peer-led groups of scholars, researchers, and practitioners working together to build bodies of knowledge related to topics of critical importance to society at large. Focusing on the intersection of academia and social impact, The Image Knowledge Community brings an interdisciplinary, international perspective to discussions of new developments in the field, including research, practice, policy, and teaching.

Membership Benefits

As an Image Knowledge Community member you have access to a broad range of tools and resources to use in your own work:

- Digital subscription to The International Journal of the Image for one year.
- Digital subscription to the book imprint for one year.
- One article publication per year (pending peer review).
- Participation as a reviewer in the peer review process, with the opportunity to be listed as an Associate Editor after reviewing three or more articles.
- Subscription to the community e-newsletter, providing access to news and announcements for and from the knowledge community.
- Option to add a video presentation to the community YouTube channel.
- Free access to the Scholar social knowledge platform, including:
 - ◊ Personal profile and publication portfolio page
 - ◊ Ability to interact and form communities with peers away from the clutter and commercialism of other social media
 - ◊ Optional feeds to Facebook and Twitter
 - ◊ Complimentary use of Scholar in your classes—for class interactions in its Community space, multimodal student writing in its Creator space, and managing student peer review, assessment, and sharing of published work.

Present and Participate in the Conference

You have already begun your engagement in the community by attending the conference, presenting your work, and interacting face-to-face with other members. We hope this experience provides a valuable source of feedback for your current work and the possible seeds for future individual and collaborative projects, as well as the start of a conversation with community colleagues that will continue well into the future.

Publish Journal Articles or Books

We encourage you to submit an article for review and possible publication in the journal. In this way, you may share the finished outcome of your presentation with other participants and members of the community. As a member of the community, you will also be invited to review others' work and contribute to the development of the community knowledge base as an Associate Editor. As part of your active membership in the community, you also have online access to the complete works (current and previous volumes) of the journal and to the book imprint. We also invite you to consider submitting a proposal for the book imprint.

Engage through Social Media

There are several ways to connect and network with community colleagues:

Email Newsletters: Published monthly, these contain information on the conference and publishing, along with news of interest to the community. Contribute news or links with a subject line 'Email Newsletter Suggestion' to support@ontheimage.com.

Scholar: Common Ground's path-breaking platform that connects academic peers from around the world in a space that is modulated for serious discourse and the presentation of knowledge works.

Facebook: Comment on current news, view photos from the conference, and take advantage of special benefits for community members at: <http://www.facebook.com/OnTheImage>.

Twitter: Follow the community @ontheimage and talk about the conference with #ICOTI16.

YouTube Channel: View online presentations or contribute your own at <http://commongroundpublishing.com/support/uploading-your-presentation-to-youtube>.

The principal role of the Advisory Board is to drive the overall intellectual direction of The Image Knowledge Community and to consult on our foundational themes as they evolve along with the currents of the field. Board members are invited to attend the annual conference and provide important insights on conference development, including suggestions for speakers, venues, and special themes. We also encourage board members to submit articles for publication consideration to The International Journal of the Image as well as proposals or completed manuscripts to The Image Book Imprint.

We are grateful for the continued service and support of the following world-class scholars and practitioners.

- Tressa Berman, California College of the Arts, San Francisco, USA
- Howard Besser, New York University, New York City, USA

A Social Knowledge Platform

Create Your Academic Profile and Connect to Peers

Developed by our brilliant Common Ground software team, Scholar connects academic peers from around the world in a space that is modulated for serious discourse and the presentation of knowledge works.

Utilize Your Free Scholar Membership Today through

- Building your academic profile and list of published works.
- Joining a community with a thematic or disciplinary focus.
- Establishing a new knowledge community relevant to your field.
- Creating new academic work in our innovative publishing space.
- Building a peer review network around your work or courses.

Scholar Quick Start Guide

1. Navigate to <http://cgscholar.com>. Select [Sign Up] below 'Create an Account'.
2. Enter a "blip" (a very brief one-sentence description of yourself).
3. Click on the "Find and join communities" link located under the YOUR COMMUNITIES heading (On the left hand navigation bar).
4. Search for a community to join or create your own.

Scholar Next Steps – Build Your Academic Profile

- About: Include information about yourself, including a linked CV in the top, dark blue bar.
- Interests: Create searchable information so others with similar interests can locate you.
- Peers: Invite others to connect as a peer and keep up with their work.
- Shares: Make your page a comprehensive portfolio of your work by adding publications in the Shares area - be these full text copies of works in cases where you have permission, or a link to a bookstore, library or publisher listing. If you choose Common Ground's hybrid open access option, you may post the final version of your work here, available to anyone on the web if you select the 'make my site public' option.
- Image: Add a photograph of yourself to this page; hover over the avatar and click the pencil/edit icon to select.
- Publisher: All Common Ground community members have free access to our peer review space for their courses. Here they can arrange for students to write multimodal essays or reports in the Creator space (including image, video, audio, dataset or any other file), manage student peer review, co-ordinate assessments, and share students' works by publishing them to the Community space.

A Digital Learning Platform

Use Scholar to Support Your Teaching

Scholar is a social knowledge platform that transforms the patterns of interaction in learning by putting students first, positioning them as knowledge producers instead of passive knowledge consumers. Scholar provides scaffolding to encourage making and sharing knowledge drawing from multiple sources rather than memorizing knowledge that has been presented to them.

Scholar also answers one of the most fundamental questions students and instructors have of their performance, “How am I doing?” Typical modes of assessment often answer this question either too late to matter or in a way that is not clear or comprehensive enough to meaningfully contribute to better performance.

A collaborative research and development project between Common Ground and the College of Education at the University of Illinois, Scholar contains a knowledge community space, a multimedia web writing space, a formative assessment environment that facilitates peer review, and a dashboard with aggregated machine and human formative and summative writing assessment data.

The following Scholar features are only available to Common Ground Knowledge Community members as part of their membership. Please email us at support@cgscholar.com if you would like the complimentary educator account that comes with participation in a Common Ground conference.

- Create projects for groups of students, involving draft, peer review, revision, and publication.
- Publish student works to each student’s personal portfolio space, accessible through the web for class discussion.
- Create and distribute surveys.
- Evaluate student work using a variety of measures in the assessment dashboard.

Scholar is a generation beyond learning management systems. It is what we term a Digital Learning Platform—it transforms learning by engaging students in powerfully horizontal “social knowledge” relationships. For more information, visit: <http://knowledge.cgscholar.com>.

The Image Journal

Committed to being a definitive resource interrogating the nature and functions of image making and images

About

The International Journal of the Image interrogates the nature of the image and functions of image making. This cross-disciplinary journal brings together researchers, theoreticians, practitioners, and teachers from areas of interest including: architecture, art, cognitive science, communications, computer science, cultural studies, design, education, film studies, history, linguistics, management, marketing, media studies, museum studies, philosophy, photography, psychology, religious studies, semiotics, and more.

The International Journal of the Image is peer-reviewed, supported by rigorous processes of criterion-referenced article ranking and qualitative commentary, ensuring that only intellectual work of the greatest substance and highest significance is published.

Editor

David Cubby, School of Humanities and Communication Arts, University of Western Sydney, Sydney, Australia

Associate Editors

Articles published in The International Journal of the Image are peer reviewed by scholars who are active members of The Image Knowledge Community. Reviewers may be past or present conference delegates, fellow submitters to the journal, or scholars who have volunteered to review papers (and have been screened by Common Ground's editorial team). This engagement with the knowledge community, as well as Common Ground's synergistic and criterion-based evaluation system, distinguishes the peer review process from journals that have a more top-down approach to refereeing. Reviewers are assigned to papers based on their academic interests and scholarly expertise. In recognition of the valuable feedback and publication recommendations that they provide, reviewers are acknowledged as Associate Editors in the volume that includes the paper(s) they reviewed. Thus, in addition to The International Journal of the Image's Editors and Advisory Board, the Associate Editors contribute significantly to the overall editorial quality and content of the journal.

Journal Submission Process and Timeline

Below, please find step-by-step instructions on the journal article submission process:

1. Submit a conference presentation proposal.
2. Once your conference presentation proposal has been accepted, you may submit your article by clicking the "Add a Paper" button on the right side of your proposal page. You may upload your article anytime between the first and the final submission deadlines. (See dates below)
3. Once your article is received, it is verified against template and submission requirements. If your article satisfies these requirements, your identity and contact details are then removed, and the article is matched to two appropriate referees and sent for review. You can view the status of your article at any time by logging into your CGPublisher account at www.CGPublisher.com.
4. When both referee reports are uploaded, and after the referees' identities have been removed, you will be notified by email and provided with a link to view the reports.
5. If your article has been accepted, you will be asked to accept the Publishing Agreement and submit a final copy of your article. If your paper is accepted with revisions, you will be required to submit a change note with your final submission, explaining how you revised your article in light of the referees' comments. If your article is rejected, you may resubmit it once, with a detailed change note, for review by new referees.
6. Once we have received the final submission of your article, which was accepted or accepted with revisions, our Publishing Department will give your article a final review. This final review will verify that you have complied with the Chicago Manual of Style (16th edition), and will check any edits you have made while considering the feedback of your referees. After this review has been satisfactorily completed, your paper will be typeset and a proof will be sent to you for approval before publication.
7. Individual articles may be published "Web First" with a full citation. Full issues follow at regular, quarterly intervals. All issues are published 4 times per volume (except the annual review, which is published once per volume).

Submission Timeline

You may submit your article for publication to the journal at any time throughout the year. The rolling submission deadlines are as follows:

- Submission Round 1 – 15 January
- Submission Round 2 – 15 April
- Submission Round 3 – 15 July
- Submission Round 4 (final) – 15 October

Note: If your article is submitted after the final deadline for the volume, it will be considered for the following year's volume. The sooner you submit, the sooner your article will begin the peer review process. Also, because we publish "Web First," early submission means that your article may be published with a full citation as soon as it is ready, even if that is before the full issue is published.

Hybrid Open Access

All Common Ground Journals are Hybrid Open Access. Hybrid Open Access is an option increasingly offered by both university presses and well-known commercial publishers.

Hybrid Open Access means some articles are available only to subscribers, while others are made available at no charge to anyone searching the web. Authors pay an additional fee for the open access option. Authors may do this because open access is a requirement of their research-funding agency, or they may do this so non-subscribers can access their article for free.

Common Ground's open access charge is $250 per article—a very reasonable price compared to our hybrid open access competitors and purely open access journals resourced with an author publication fee. Digital articles are normally only available through individual or institutional subscriptions or for purchase at $5 per article. However, if you choose to make your article Open Access, this means anyone on the web may download it for free.

Paying subscribers still receive considerable benefits with access to all articles in the journal, from both current and past volumes, without any restrictions. However, making your paper available at no charge through Open Access increases its visibility, accessibility, potential readership, and citation counts. Open Access articles also generate higher citation counts.

Institutional Open Access

Common Ground is proud to announce an exciting new model of scholarly publishing called Institutional Open Access.

Institutional Open Access allows faculty and graduate students to submit articles to Common Ground journals for unrestricted open access publication. These articles will be freely and publicly available to the whole world through our hybrid open access infrastructure. With Institutional Open Access, instead of the author paying a per-article open access fee, institutions pay a set annual fee that entitles their students and faculty to publish a given number of open access articles each year.

The rights to the articles remain with the subscribing institution. Both the author and the institution can also share the final typeset version of the article in any place they wish, including institutional repositories, personal websites, and privately or publicly accessible course materials. We support the highest Sherpa/Romeo access level—Green.

For more information on how to make your article Open Access, or information on Institutional Open Access, please contact us at support@commongroundpublishing.com.

International Award for Excellence

The International Journal of the Image presents an annual International Award for Excellence for new research or thinking in this field of study. All articles submitted for publication in The International Journal of the Image are entered into consideration for this award. The review committee for the award is selected from the highest-ranked articles emerging from the review process and according to the selection criteria outlined in the reviewer guidelines. This cross-disciplinary journal brings together researchers, theoreticians, practitioners, and teachers from areas of interest which centralize on the image.

"Derrida, Benjamin and the Subjectile"

Abstract

In an interview from 1992 that appeared in "Copy, Archive, Signature," Jacques Derrida states that digital photography is "without a 'subjectile,'" whilst at the same time asserting that photography prior to digital technology still contained a "subjectile." I will unfold the significance of this statement in order to clarify both the sense in which Derrida speaks of the "subjectile," and what this means in relation to Walter Benjamin's that the (then) new technology of photography heralded the death of aura. The subjectile is a term that first appeared in the written works of Antonin Artaud, and refers to his approach to his works on paper. Artaud uses it to designate a complex sense of a surface, upon which so many influences, traditions, borders and clichés are "projected," and from which the work must be wrested. In "To Unsense the Subjectile," Derrida develops this notion of the subjectile, exploring its influence on the creative act, yet never expands upon his reference to the subjectile in relation to photography. However, through a careful study of Derrida's writing on Artaud's subjectile I will show how a fundamental difference appears between analog and digital photography that transforms the moment of capture itself.

Community Membership and Personal Subscriptions

As part of each conference registration, all conference participants (both virtual and in-person) have a one-year digital subscription to The International Journal of the Image. This complimentary personal subscription grants access to the current volume as well as the entire backlist. The period of complimentary access begins at the time of registration and ends one year after the close of the conference. After that time, delegates may purchase a personal subscription.

To view articles, go to <http://ijx.cgpublisher.com/>. Select the “Login” option and provide a CGPublisher username and password. Then, select an article and download the PDF. For lost or forgotten login details, select “forgot your login” to request a new password.

Journal Subscriptions

Common Ground offers print and digital subscriptions to all of its journals. Subscriptions are available to The International Journal of the Image and to custom suites based on a given institution’s unique content needs. Subscription prices are based on a tiered scale that corresponds to the full-time enrollment (FTE) of the subscribing institution.

participatory knowledge creation and scholarly publication*

The Image Book Imprint

Call for Books

Common Ground is setting new standards of rigorous academic knowledge creation and scholarly publication. Unlike other publishers, we're not interested in the size of potential markets or competition from other books. We're only interested in the intellectual quality of the work. If your book is a brilliant contribution to a specialist area of knowledge that only serves a small intellectual community, we still want to publish it. If it is expansive and has a broad appeal, we want to publish it too, but only if it is of the highest intellectual quality.

We welcome proposals or completed manuscript submissions of:

- Individually and jointly authored books
- Edited collections addressing a clear, intellectually challenging theme
- Collections of articles published in our journals
- Out-of-copyright books, including important books that have gone out of print and classics with new introductions

Book Proposal Guidelines

Books should be between 30,000 and 150,000 words in length. They are published simultaneously in print and electronic formats and are available through Amazon and as Kindle editions. To publish a book, please send us a proposal including:

- Title
- Author(s)/editor(s)
- Draft back-cover blurb
- Author bio note(s)

Call for Book Reviewers

Common Ground Publishing is seeking distinguished peer reviewers to evaluate book manuscripts.

As part of our commitment to intellectual excellence and a rigorous review process, Common Ground sends book manuscripts that have received initial editorial approval to peer reviewers to further evaluate and provide constructive feedback. The comments and guidance that these reviewers supply is invaluable to our authors and an essential part of the publication process.

Common Ground recognizes the important role of reviewers by acknowledging book reviewers as members of the Editorial Review Board for a period of at least one year. The list of members of the Editorial Review Board will be posted on our website.

If you would like to review book manuscripts, please send an email to books@commongroundpublishing.com with:

- A brief description of your professional credentials
- A list of your areas of interest and expertise
- A copy of your CV with current contact details

If we feel that you are qualified and we require refereeing for manuscripts within your purview, we will contact you.

Moving from Novice to Expert on the Road to Expertise: Developing Expertise in the Visual Domain

Dr. Arianne Rourke and Dr. Vaughan Dai Rees (eds.)

This book explores how expertise is developed in higher education, both theoretically and practically, and focuses on this phenomenon in the visual domain. It examines what prompts and inspires students to learn via visual stimulus and shows the usefulness of modeling expert performance to facilitate learning. Characteristics of expertise are discussed in a variety of arts disciplinary contexts to demonstrate how deciphering the visual world can be accomplished. The authors discuss the role that visual stimulus plays within the context of the technologically developed world where educators face new challenges to promote the long-term retention of learning. This book interrogates how the visual is negotiated through various lenses to explore notions of the expert and the novice.

Editor Bios:

Dr. Arianne Rourke is an academic at the University of New South Wales, Art & Design with over 24 years of teaching experience in higher education. Her research is in higher education pedagogy specifically in the area of examining ways of improving the use of visuals in instructional design to assist towards promoting the long-term retention of learning. Dr. Rourke has published widely her experimental research in higher education teaching and learning and has recently written a co-authored book with Dr. Zena O'Connor on the Effective use of visuals for learning in Higher Education (Nova Science) and co-edited a book with Kathryn Coleman titled: Pedagogy leads technology: Online Learning and Teaching in Higher Education: New Technologies, New Pedagogies (Common Ground).

Dr. Vaughan Rees is an academic at the University of New South Wales, Art & Design, Sydney, Australia. He is a practicing artist and design educator with nearly forty years of experience teaching at secondary schools and universities. His research focuses on visual autobiography as both an artistic outcome and as a research methodology. The dominant medium of his art practice is drawing and recently he has been exploring the notion of place, travel, personal consumption and global transformation. Dr. Rees has exhibited in Australia, Canada, China, Singapore and the United States of America. He co-authored the successful book series, Artifacts published by McGraw-Hill and was awarded an Australian Book Publishers' Award for the first book in the series.

The Picture in Design: What Graphic Designers, Art Directors, and Illustrators Should Know about Communicating with Pictures

Pictures are as vital to graphic design as type, yet graphic design theories barely give them a look. The seemingly unconscious nature of the act of seeing has meant that vision and pictures have been taken for granted. Finally, here is a way for graphic designers to understand pictures. This book explains the paradox that we are able to communicate more accurately through less accurately rendered images.

Author Bio:

Stuart Medley is an award-winning designer and illustrator. His illustrations and comics have been published internationally, and are in the Michael Hill Collections at the Australian National Library. He is a senior lecturer at Edith Cowan University, Australia, and has presented research at international conferences including TypoGraphic2005, Lebanon, and the NewViews 2008 conference at the LCC in London.

Researching the Visual: Demystifying “The Picture That’s Worth a Thousand Words”

This book discusses from both a practical as well as theoretical perspective many different approaches to researching the visual in higher education, to assist demystifying “the picture that’s worth a thousand words.” It takes a multi-disciplinary approach to using the visual for research and discusses the role technology can play both as the subject of visual research and in the training of the visual researcher. From a variety of different disciplinary focuses, the authors offer the educator, researcher, and tertiary student both their knowledge and practical approach to systematically and creatively deciphering, deconstructing, and reconfiguring the visual form. This book promotes the worthiness of focusing on the visual as the subject of research and scholarship as we move further into the technologically sophisticated world of 21st-century learning.

The Image Conference

Curating global interdisciplinary spaces, supporting professionally rewarding relationships

Conference History

Founded in 2010, the International Conference on the Image is a means by which to interrogate the nature and functions of image making and images. The conference is a cross-disciplinary forum bringing together researchers, teachers, and practitioners from areas, including: architecture, art, cognitive science, communications, computer science, cultural studies, design, education, film studies, history, linguistics, management, marketing, media studies, museum studies, philosophy, photography, psychology, religious studies, semiotics, and more.

The International Conference on the Image is built upon four key features: Internationalism, Interdisciplinarity, Inclusiveness, and Interaction. Conference delegates include leaders in the field as well as emerging artists and scholars, who travel to the conference from all corners of the globe and represent a broad range of disciplines and perspectives. A variety of presentation options and session types offer delegates multiple opportunities to engage, to discuss key issues in the field, and to build relationships with scholars from other cultures and disciplines.

Past Conferences

2010 – University of California, Los Angeles, USA

2011 – San Sebastian, Spain

2012 – Higher School of Humanities and Journalism, Poznań, Poland

2013 – University Center, Chicago, USA

2014 – Free University, Berlin, Germany

2015 – University of California, Berkeley, USA

Plenary Speaker Highlights

The International Conference on the Image has a rich history of featuring leading and emerging voices from the field, including:

- Howard Besser, New York University, New York City, USA (2010)
- Sean Cubitt, University of Melbourne, Melbourne, Australia (2010)
- Natasha Egan, Columbia College, Chicago, USA (2013)
- Blake Fitzpatrick, Ryerson University, Toronto, Canada (2014)
- Erkki Huhtamo, University of California, Los Angeles, USA (2013)
- Dina Iordanova, University of St Andrews, Fife, Scotland (2011)
- Douglas Kellner, University of California, Los Angeles, USA (2010)
- Tomasz Wendland, Mediations Biennale, Poznań, Poland (2012)

Past Partners

Over the years, the International Conference on the Image has had the pleasure of working with the following organizations:

Mediations Biennale,
Poznan, Poland (2012)

San Sebastian Film Festival,
San Sebastian, Spain (2011)

Wyższa Szkoła Nauk
Humanistycznych i Dziennikarstwa,
Poznań, Poland (2012)

Become a Partner

Common Ground Publishing has a long history of meaningful and substantive partnerships with universities, research institutes, government bodies, and non-governmental organizations. Developing these partnerships is a pillar of our Knowledge Community agenda. There are a number of ways you can partner with a Common Ground Knowledge Community. Contact us at support@ontheimage.com to become a partner.

Conference Principles and Features

The structure of the conference is based on four core principles that pervade all aspects of the knowledge community:

International

This conference travels around the world to provide opportunities for delegates to see and experience different countries and locations. But more importantly, the International Conference on the Image offers a tangible and meaningful opportunity to engage with scholars from a diversity of cultures and perspectives. This year, delegates from over 20 countries are in attendance, offering a unique and unparalleled opportunity to engage directly with colleagues from all corners of the globe.

Interdisciplinary

Unlike association conferences attended by delegates with similar backgrounds and specialties, this conference brings together researchers, practitioners, and scholars from a wide range of disciplines who have a shared interest in the themes and concerns of this community. As a result, topics are broached from a variety of perspectives, interdisciplinary methods are applauded, and mutual respect and collaboration are encouraged.

Inclusive

Anyone whose scholarly work is sound and relevant is welcome to participate in this community and conference, regardless of discipline, culture, institution, or career path. Whether an emeritus professor, graduate student, researcher, teacher, policymaker, practitioner, or administrator, your work and your voice can contribute to the collective body of knowledge that is created and shared by this community.

Interactive

To take full advantage of the rich diversity of cultures, backgrounds, and perspectives represented at the conference, there must be ample opportunities to speak, listen, engage, and interact. A variety of session formats, from more to less structured, are offered throughout the conference to provide these opportunities.

Plenary

Plenary speakers, chosen from among the world's leading thinkers, offer formal presentations on topics of broad interest to the community and conference delegation. One or more speakers are scheduled into a plenary session, most often the first session of the day. As a general rule, there are no questions or discussion during these sessions. Instead, plenary speakers answer questions and participate in informal, extended discussions during their Garden Sessions.

Garden Conversation

Garden Conversations are informal, unstructured sessions that allow delegates a chance to meet plenary speakers and talk with them at length about the issues arising from their presentation. When the venue and weather allow, we try to arrange for a circle of chairs to be placed outdoors.

Talking Circles

Held on the first day of the conference, Talking Circles offer an early opportunity to meet other delegates with similar interests and concerns. Delegates self-select into groups based on broad thematic areas and then engage in extended discussion about the issues and concerns they feel are of utmost importance to that segment of the community. Questions like "Who are we?", "What is our common ground?", "What are the current challenges facing society in this area?", "What challenges do we face in constructing knowledge and effecting meaningful change in this area?" may guide the conversation. When possible, a second Talking Circle is held on the final day of the conference, for the original group to reconvene and discuss changes in their perspectives and understandings as a result of the conference experience. Reports from the Talking Circles provide a framework for the delegates' final discussions during the Closing Session.

Themed Paper Presentations

Paper presentations are grouped by general themes or topics into sessions comprised of three or four presentations followed by group discussion. Each presenter in the session makes a formal twenty-minute presentation of their work; Q&A and group discussion follow after all have presented. Session Chairs introduce the speakers, keep time on the presentations, and facilitate the discussion. Each presenter's formal, written paper will be available to participants if accepted to the journal.

Colloquium

Colloquium sessions are organized by a group of colleagues who wish to present various dimensions of a project or perspectives on an issue. Four or five short formal presentations are followed by a moderator. A single article or multiple articles may be submitted to the journal based on the content of a colloquium session.

Focused Discussion

For work that is best discussed or debated, rather than reported on through a formal presentation, these sessions provide a forum for an extended “roundtable” conversation between an author and a small group of interested colleagues. Several such discussions occur simultaneously in a specified area, with each author’s table designated by a number corresponding to the title and topic listed in the program schedule. Summaries of the author’s key ideas, or points of discussion, are used to stimulate and guide the discourse. A single article, based on the scholarly work and informed by the focused discussion as appropriate, may be submitted to the journal.

Workshop/ Interactive Session

Workshop sessions involve extensive interaction between presenters and participants around an idea or hands-on experience of a practice. These sessions may also take the form of a crafted panel, staged conversation, dialogue or debate—all involving substantial interaction with the audience. A single article (jointly authored, if appropriate) may be submitted to the journal based on a workshop session.

Poster Sessions

Poster sessions present preliminary results of works in progress or projects that lend themselves to visual displays and representations. These sessions allow for engagement in informal discussions about the work with interested delegates throughout the session.

Virtual Lightning Talk

Lightning talks are 5-minute “flash” video presentations. Authors present summaries or overviews of their work, describing the essential features (related to purpose, procedures, outcomes, or product). Like Paper Presentations, Lightning Talks are grouped according to topic or perspective into themed sessions. Authors are welcome to submit traditional “lecture style” videos or videos that use visual supports like PowerPoint. Final videos must be submitted at least one month prior to the conference start date. After the conference, videos are then presented on the community YouTube channel. Full papers can based in the virtual poster can also be submitted for consideration in the journal.

Virtual Poster

This format is ideal for presenting preliminary results of work in progress or for projects that lend themselves to visual displays and representations. Each poster should include a brief abstract of the purpose and procedures of the work. After acceptance, presenters are provided with a template, and Virtual Posters are submitted as a PDF or in PowerPoint. Final posters must be submitted at least one month prior to the conference start date. Full papers can based in the virtual poster can also be submitted for consideration in the journal.

Publishing Your Article or Book with Common Ground

Friday, 2 September | 8:55–9:15

Description: In this session, Common Ground Publishing will present an overview of publishing philosophy and practices for publishing within The International Journal of the Image. We will also offer tips for turning conference papers in to journal articles, present an overview of journal publishing procedures, and provide information on Common Ground's book proposal submission process. Please feel free to bring questions—the second half of the session will be devoted to Q&A.

Special Events

Pre-conference Tour: Tate Museum Private Guided Tour: Francis Bacon-Invisible Rooms Exhibition

Wednesday, 31 August

Description: Learn something new about a great British painter. Join us to experience the largest Francis Bacon exhibition ever staged in the north of England. On display will be more than 30 powerful paintings alongside a group of rarely seen drawings and documents. Join your fellow delegates on a guided tour of works from this iconic artist on the day before the conference begins.

Pop-up Exhibition and Welcome Reception

Thursday, 11 August

Description: The International Conference on The Image and the Liverpool School of Art and Design at Liverpool John Moores University will be hosting a welcome reception and pop-up exhibition featuring works that address the exhibition focus: Face Value - Personification and Identity in a Post-digital Age. The reception will be held directly following the last parallel session of the conference day, and works will also be available to view throughout the entirety of the conference. All conference delegates are invited to attend the reception and enjoy refreshments and a chance to converse with colleagues from around the world.

Peter Claes

Peter Claes obtained a PhD in engineering in June 2007 within the field of medical image computing at the KU Leuven, Belgium. During his PhD, he developed a computer-based craniofacial reconstruction approach for victim identification purposes. After his PhD, he established his own research trajectory and vision with fundamental interest in pattern recognition and predictive modelling within computational imaging and biology. He was a post-doc at the Melbourne Dental School, University of Melbourne, Australia, until January 2011. During that time, he built an international and versatile network of collaborations that is still very useful and active today. Currently, he is appointed as honorary fellow at the Murdoch Children's Research Institute, Australia and as research expert at the KU Leuven, ESAT/PSI/MIC, Belgium. Within his research, he has focused on computational biology, more in particular on 3D morphometric analyses from image data, with a series of granted project proposals both as partner as well as chief or sole investigator. The basis of his line of research lies in computer vision and medical image analysis with gained and proven extensions in biostatistics, genetics, human biology and disease, as well as cognitive psychology. The motivation behind his line of research lies in creative thinking and the ability to image and visualize previously unexposed biological phenomena that lead to predictions based on biological relationships. His applications of focus mainly involve craniofacial reconstruction and diagnosis, and facial, as well as ear biometrics.

James Coupe

James Coupe is an artist whose practice spans a broad range of media, platforms, and sites including installation, video, internet, and public art. Making substantial use of face profiling and surveillance technologies, his work is concerned with questions of power, observation, and visibility. Whether this means overlaying fictional narratives onto real-world events (recollector, 2007), algorithmically generating communities (Swarm, 2013), or hiring Mechanical Turk workers to document their working days (General Intellect, 2015), his interest is always in making visible people, places, systems, and landscapes that for various reasons are hidden, ignored, or unseen. Recent projects include commissions from the Toronto International Film Festival, the Henry Art Gallery, and the Abandon Normal Devices Festival. He has received grants and awards from Creative Capital, the Prix Ars Electronica, and New Contemporaries. His work has been exhibited worldwide including venues such as Camden Arts Centre, Parsons The New School for Design, and ZKM. He is an associate professor at the Center for Digital Art and Experimental Media (DXARTS), University of Washington, Seattle, USA. Further information and documentation of his work can be found at <http://www.jamescoupe.com>.

Adam Harvey

Adam Harvey is an artist and independent researcher based in Berlin. His previous work includes developing types of camouflage from face detection (CV Dazzle) and thermal imaging (Stealth Wear). Harvey has taught at New York University; participated in Belligerent Eyes workshop at Prada Foundation and the Tabula Rasa project on anti-spoofing; and has been featured in numerous books and publications including the New York Times, Washington Post, Der Spiegel, and BBC. Harvey's current area of research is in exploring the new uncertainties of latent visual information.

Faye Skelton

Dr. Faye Skelton is a face recognition researcher and Lecturer in cognitive psychology at Edinburgh Napier University. Her research interests center on forensic applications of face recognition, including eyewitness identification, police facial composites, and more recently, so-called “Super-Recognisers”.

Skelton obtained her PhD in face recognition from Lancaster University in 2004, focusing on how children learn new faces. After her PhD, whilst lecturing at the University of Central Lancashire, her research took a more applied angle, focusing on the improvement of police facial composite images in collaboration with Dr. Charlie Frowd. Examining more traditional feature-based (PROfit) and newer evolutionary (EvoFIT) composite software systems, she has explored ways of improving witness' memory using interviews, changes to composite production procedures, and post-production techniques for enhancing the likeness of composites to targets. This work has dramatically improved correct naming rates of composites in laboratory tests and police field trials, ultimately helping the police to catch more offenders. Facial composite images (often known as 'E-Fits') are visual likenesses of suspects based on a witness' memory and are typically produced using specialist software and trained operators. These images are frequently circulated via the media in order to generate lines of enquiry, but have historically suffered from very poor recognition and naming rates (~3%). Improvements have been made in the last decade primarily due to new software, which harnesses whole-face recognition rather than relying on detailed recall of individual facial features. Further improvements to composite accuracy have been made by making changes to the witness interview and composite production technique in order to improve the quality of the important 'internal' facial features, morphing composites from multiple witnesses, and altering the format of the image for publication. Recent research shows that combining some of these techniques can result in accurate naming rates in excess of 70%.

Caroline Wilkinson

Caroline Wilkinson took up the post of Director of the School of Art & Design in October 2014. She has a background in art and science and her research and creative work sits at the forefront of art-science fusion and includes subjects as diverse as forensic art, human anatomy, medical art, face recognition, forensic science, anthropology, 3D visualization, digital art, and craniofacial identification. Caroline is a graduate of the University of Manchester, where she also led the Unit of Art in Medicine 2000-2005 and received a NESTA fellowship to develop a 3D computerized facial reconstruction system for use in forensic and archaeological depiction. She moved to LJMU from the University of Dundee, where she was Head of Human Identification in the award-winning Centre for Anatomy & Human Identification. Her high profile facial depiction work includes facial depictions of Richard III, St Nicolas, J.S. Bach, Rameses II and Mary, Queen of Scots. Caroline is Director of the Face Lab, a LJMU research group based in Liverpool Science Park. The Face Lab carries out forensic/archaeological research and consultancy work and this includes craniofacial analysis, facial depiction, and forensic art. Craniofacial analysis involves the depiction and identification of unknown bodies for forensic investigation or historical figures for archaeological interpretation. This may involve post-mortem depiction, facial reconstruction, craniofacial superimposition, and skull reassembly. Forensic art also involves witness interviews to produce facial sketches/composites, age progression images, and facial image comparison. The Face Lab research relates to facial identification, post-mortem decomposition, ancestry determination, craniofacial reconstruction, preserved bodies, and facial animation. Caroline is accredited as a forensic anthropologist Level I (craniofacial specialism) by the Royal Anthropological Institute (RAI) and is an experienced forensic practitioner. Caroline has collaborated frequently with museums and the media, especially relating to craniofacial depiction of people from the past. She has worked with the National Museum of Scotland, National Museum of Ireland, Museum of London, Egyptian Museum of Cairo, Theban Mapping Project, FBI Academy, Interpol, Moesgaard Museum, Manchester Museum, and the Fraunhofer Institute. She has current research collaborations with Duncan of Jordanstone College of Art & Design, DSTL, Chonnam National University and the Richard III Society.

Meghan Jordan

Meghan Jordan is from Long Island, New York, and received her Bachelor of Fine Arts in professional photographic illustration with a minor in art history from Rochester Institute of Technology in 2013. She is currently a graduate student in art history at the University of Arizona with her major interest being photographic history. Her love of museums has resulted in multiple internships, including at the George Eastman Museum, New York's Museum of Modern Art, and the Center for Creative Photography. She aspires to research, curate, and educate on the impact of photographic history on contemporary visual culture.

Clare Massey

Clare Massey is a visual artist and educator based in Manchester, UK. Currently funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council, her practice-led Ph.D. "Contemporary Photography as Continued Gendered Practice" uses appropriation and intervention of photographic materials to create a discourse on the cultural use of images past, present, and future.

Elena Milani

Elena Milani is a PhD student in science communication at the University of the West of England, UK, and her research focuses on the network and discourse analysis of vaccination images used for advocacy that are shared on Twitter. Before starting her postgraduate studies, Milani completed a Master in Science Communication in Italy (2014). She has extensive work experience in both visual and digital communication, especially of science and at scientific conferences. Milani has worked as a web reputation analyst for an Italian web agency (2014), she participated in several science outreach events and scientific conferences, organizing and moderating live tweeting, and she designed graphical materials for science outreach activities for the Science Museum in Trento, Italy.

Lydia Miliokas

Lydia Miliokas is a graduate student in the Faculty of Media, Art, and Performance at the University of Regina, Saskatchewan, and a 2014 Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Canada Graduate Scholarship recipient. Her current research focuses on contemporary discourses on spectatorship and public arts festivals in Canada. Miliokas has been employed as a curatorial research assistant with the MacKenzie Art Gallery since 2010 and completed a one-year term as curator of Regina's Creative City Centre in 2014. She is currently employed as a graduate research assistant for the nationally-funded Meet in the Middle project, a series of events taking place in Regina that stages a meeting ground for artists and curators working at the intersections of art and film.

Alex Nevill

Alex Nevill is a Bristol based cinematographer, filmmaker, and lecturer. Nevill received first class honors for his undergraduate degree at the University of Gloucestershire in 2011 and then completed a Master of Fine Arts degree at the Scotland Screen Academy in 2014. He is currently studying towards a practice-led PhD in the Centre for Moving Image Research, UWE, for which he received an AHRC studentship.

His work has been exhibited at the BFI London Film Festival and awarded at Edinburgh International Film Festival, European Independent Film Festival, and Santa Fe Independent Film Festival, among others. Nevill previously held positions at Southampton Solent University, University of Gloucestershire, and currently teaches at Ravensbourne alongside his practice.

Ana Teresa Vicente

Ana Teresa Vicente is an artist, PhD candidate, and FCT research fellow at the Faculty of Fine Arts, University of Lisbon (FBA-UL). She completed her master's degree in painting in 2011 and graduated in fine arts-painting in 2007 at FBA-UL. She has exhibited regularly since 2005. She currently works in the area of photography, focusing mainly on issues of memory, identity, movement, and gesture, as well as in the relationship between photography and new media practices. She is a co-coordinator and researcher of the Post-Screen research project, based on the use of screens within artistic practices, technology, and cybercultures context.

Eighth International Conference on The Image

Founded in 2010, the International Conference on the Image is a means by which to interrogate the nature and functions of image making and images in themselves. The conference is a cross-disciplinary forum bringing together researchers, teachers and practitioners from areas, including: architecture, art, cognitive science, communications, computer science, cultural studies, design, education, film studies, history, linguistics, management, marketing, media studies, museum studies, philosophy, photography, psychology, religious studies, semiotics, and more.

We invite proposals for paper presentations, workshops/interactive sessions, colloquia, Virtual Lightning Talks, or Virtual Posters.

Returning Member Registration

We are pleased to offer a Returning Member Registration Discount to delegates who have attended The Image Conference in the past. Returning community members receive a discount off the full conference registration rate.
